Lighting mini seminar scheduled

Holland, MI, October 19, 2009 – Using the right light bulb for the right space is the topic that will be discussed from 6:30 – 7:30 PM on Thursday evening, October 22nd, at the Holland Board of Public Works' second in a series of "Living Smart" mini-seminars.

This free program will feature representatives from the Holland BPW and Light Corporation who will talk about the different types of lighting; choosing the right bulbs and fixtures, improvements in lighting, the environmental impact of energy efficient lighting, and provide tips that will help area residents live smarter.

The program will be held in the Hayes Auditorium of the Herrick District Library located at 300 S. River Avenue.

To help encourage HBPW customers to make the switch to Compact Fluorescent Lights (CFLs), the HBPW will have a door prize drawing during the mini-seminar. One Holland BPW electric customer will win a complete change-out of all the standard light bulbs in their home to compact fluorescent bulbs.
